

Figure S3. A PCA with trait loadings showed that inbred genotypes categorized as having a high root system stiffness had larger and more extensive below-ground root systems.